

Sloan Introduces Collections and Sloan DesignSpec to Simplify and Customize the Specification Process

New Resources Developed to Inspire Modern Restroom Design

FRANKLIN PARK, IL (September 9, 2020) – Sloan, the world’s leading manufacturer of commercial plumbing systems, has developed a series of product collections to go along with a new online tool—Sloan DesignSpec—designed to help customers build a customized submittal package.

Developed to make the architect and designer’s job easier, Sloan’s collection series consists of curated products that share similar aesthetic qualities to enhance a unified restroom design. Each collection is a complete product solution for contemporary restroom environments, with each collection paying homage to classic Chicago streets.

“As the total restroom solution, Sloan is continuously working to ensure that our products and services are best suited to help architects and designers find the products that work together to deliver their design inspiration and creativity,” said Jim Allen, Sloan co-president and CEO. “Our new product collections and Sloan DesignSpec tools are created with this in mind and provide a way for architects and designers to create a custom and unique restroom space where form meets function.”

Sloan’s new collections series includes:

- Halsted Street – With premium materials and touch-free convenience, this collection delivers the perfect balance of design and function to add style and hygiene to the restroom.
- Hubbard Street – This collection balances sophisticated design with sustainable efficiency. Simple geometric silhouettes and sharp lines enhanced by special finishes work together as a beautiful, high-end integrated system for a variety of upscale restrooms.
- Lake Street – The Lake Street collection delivers circular forms and natural tones to complement the polished chrome finishes, creating an accessible and versatile collection.
- State Street – State Street pairs modern convenience with rustic Chicago charm. With stark, clean fixtures, solar-powered faucets, and touch-free operation, this collection is a comprehensive solution for elegant, high-traffic locations.

In addition to its collections, Sloan’s website now features room inspirations to complement Sloan products. These environments feature elegant materials, clean palettes, and modern products and span multiple markets, including high-end restaurants, fitness centers, co-working spaces, and luxury hotels.

Sloan DesignSpec was developed to help architects and designers utilize these collections and room inspirations in practical applications as well as package any mix of Sloan products into an all-encompassing submittal package. Users will be able to streamline the product selection and specification process.
